Form 990 (2006)
Part III: Statement of Program Service Accomplishments

Form 990 is available for public inspection and, for some people, serves as the primary or sole source of information about a particular organization. How the public perceives an organization in such cases may be determined by the information presented on its return. Therefore, please make sure the return is complete and accurate and fully describes, in Part III, the organization's programs and accomplishments.

What is the organization's primary exempt purpose?  ▶ see stmt for exempt purpose

All organizations must describe their exempt purpose achievements in a clear and concise manner. State the number of clients served, publications issued, etc. Discuss achievements that are not measurable. (Section 501(c)(3) and (4) organizations and 4947(a)(1) nonexempt charitable trusts must also enter the amount of grants and allocations to others.)

Thea Foundation

Exempt Purposes

The mission of the THEA Foundation is to advocate the importance of art in the development of our youth through educational and promotional activities and to encourage individual participation in art through scholarship, partnership, and other programs. The Foundation’s goal is to inspire young people and their families by increasing their understanding of how involvement in the creative arts can help them be happier, more content individuals.

The THEA Foundation awards twenty scholarships to Arkansas high school seniors each year based on their talents in the visual and performing arts in a state-wide competition. Twenty-two colleges and universities around the country partner with the THEA Foundation through the Educational Partners Program by offering the winners matching funds to their respective colleges. Businesses and families can also donate to the scholarship fund through the Business Partners Program.

On behalf of the THEA Foundation’s first five years, over $700,000 in scholarship monies have been awarded to Arkansas high school seniors in juried competitions for seniors in the visual and performing arts. A separate program is available for juniors in juried competitions whereby the winners receive a cash stipend, a certificate, and an opportunity to participate in the workshops.

The THEA Foundation offers all-day workshops each year in the areas of acting, and/or film and technical support, dance, and visual art.

The Foundation has presented seminar/workshops for parents, teachers, and other professionals on child development and student discipline behaviors in the classroom.

An important program currently being implemented by the THEA Foundation and in association with the William J. Clinton Foundation is called Art Across Arkansas. It involves placing fine art exhibits in public schools at no charge to the schools throughout the state of Arkansas. The art donations are mostly by Arkansas artists and some from those outside the state. Each piece is showcased in a custom-built display and is rotated at the end of the year among the participating schools. Sixty-five exhibits were installed during the 2006-07 school year, and approximately eighty-five additional schools (with emphasis on rural areas), will be installed during the upcoming 2007-08 school year. A third party survey of this program acknowledged that families, students and the educational staff were all benefited by this initiative.

Another important program being implemented for the first year is Thea’s Art Closet. The Foundation picks up discarded art materials from local galleries and art supply businesses and then distributes them to public schools for art teachers to use in conducting their classes. The THEA Foundation considers this initiative a “green” program since the materials would have been disposed of otherwise and are now being recycled for a much needed purpose. Private donations for new art supplies are accepted as well.

The THEA Foundation works with community-based nonprofit foundations such as Our House and Women and Children First in outreach programs that benefit children and teenagers. The Foundation also partners with the city in a program, called East Washington Art Club, located in an impoverished area to expose teenagers to art with classes one day a week in three 6-week sessions.

The mission of the THEA Foundation is to advocate the importance of art in the development of our youth through educational and promotional activities and to encourage individual participation in art through scholarship, partnership, and other programs. The Foundation’s goal is to inspire young people and their families by increasing their understanding of how involvement in the creative arts can help them be happier, more content individuals.

The THEA Foundation awards twenty scholarships to Arkansas high school seniors each year based on their talents in the visual and performing arts in a state-wide competition. Twenty-two colleges and universities around the country partner with the THEA Foundation through the Educational Partners Program by offering the winners matching funds to their respective colleges. Businesses and families can also donate to the scholarship fund through the Business Partners Program.

On behalf of the THEA Foundation’s first five years, over $700,000 in scholarship monies have been awarded to Arkansas high school seniors in juried competitions for seniors in the visual and performing arts. A separate program is available for juniors in juried competitions whereby the winners receive a cash stipend, a certificate, and an opportunity to participate in the workshops.

The THEA Foundation offers all-day workshops each year in the areas of acting, and/or film and technical support, dance, and visual art.

The Foundation has presented seminar/workshops for parents, teachers, and other professionals on child development and student discipline behaviors in the classroom.

An important program currently being implemented by the THEA Foundation and in association with the William J. Clinton Foundation is called Art Across Arkansas. It involves placing fine art exhibits in public schools at no charge to the schools throughout the state of Arkansas. The art donations are mostly by Arkansas artists and some from those outside the state. Each piece is showcased in a custom-built display and is rotated at the end of the year among the participating schools. Sixty-five exhibits were installed during the 2006-07 school year, and approximately eighty-five additional schools (with emphasis on rural areas), will be installed during the upcoming 2007-08 school year.
